The Medical Intern

The Medical Intern

Elin, Marjolein and Hugo are approaching the end of their medical internships. Having gained a lot of experience, they are now pondering their future. Which path should they now take - a family practice, internal medicine or surgery? Hugo receives two excellent offers and is confronted with a difficult decision...

Elin, who has been ecstatic over her new boyfriend, is left sadly hanging when he is assigned to stand in for a colleague that works in Kenya. Yet another cloud is hanging over her this season. A new and gorgeous medical intern has joined the staff, which means that Elin is no longer the most attractive and desirable intern at the hospital. Having such competition is bad enough, but the two also have major difficulty getting along with each other.

Meanwhile, Marjolein is going through a difficult phase with Doctor Verstraeten. They are madly in love with each other, but Marjolein has finally had enough - she demands that he stops delaying and divorces his wife immediately. Backed against a wall, Verstraeten still feels that he is being rushed.

Elin and Marjolein decide to go to Africa to join Elin's lover at the AMREF Flying Doctors complex. It does not take long before all of their romantic notions about self-sacrifice and providing aid to Third World countries quickly evaporate. To be anything close to useful under such dire conditions, one must have great inner strength and the iron will to fully commit against overwhelming odds. Unfortunately, it is exactly that fighting spirit that these two misplaced ladies have in too short a supply...
