Danni Lowinski

German TV Award 2010 for "Best Series" - the most successful German series launch in 2010!

The extraordinary and unconventional lawyer Danni has again set up her folding table in the mall and is offering her advice - and action to match - for one Euro per minute.

In her private life, the supposedly happy ending with the attorney Oliver Schmidt has collapsed. He has severely disappointed Danni. So now that the mall's new security guard Sven is increasingly showing his interest, Danni is asking herself if he could really be the right one.

In order to regain her critical access to a phone and fax, she must strike a new deal with Hannes, who has taken over the locksmith shop and has in the meantime denied her the privilege.

The masseur Nils is hoping his new shop offering assorted holistic healing therapies will be profitable. It is only when it comes to Danni's girlfriend Bea and her father Kurt that it seems little has changed.

In this new season, Danni defends a cook facing the loss of his job. He had taken meat scraps out of his employer's garbage and donated the perfectly edible food to a nursery school. In another episode, Alzheimer's disease and the bus stop at a retirement home play a critical role. In addition, Danni is exposed to an unusual form of domestic violence when a woman torments her husband.

Although some of her new cases leave the former hairdresser sitting in the proverbial hot seat, Danni remains true to her principles, her unconventional methods and herself!
