Clueless Genius

Clueless Genius

The fun is in the asking... and then watching hysterically while the panel of five comedians scratch their heads, rack their brains, and do flip-flops trying to come up with the right answer.

It's an off-the-wall question called in by a viewer, who winds up with a handful of cash when the question cannot be solved.

It's the team play of the comedians that makes the audience roar with laughter, but of course the questions themselves can inspire pretty hilarious ideas: "What's the peck test"?

The mind goes wild at all the possibilities, as do the antics of the joke-laden comedians as they throw crazy solutions back and forth. It's hard to imagine what they'll come up with next! The weirdest explanations, that's what... so unexpected and amusing that not just the audience, but also the host himself is doubled over with laughter.

For the most part, the comedians don't have the slightest clue as to what they are talking about, which makes for lots of stand-up comedy, funny stories, and sometimes a quarter or half-serious discussion among the always-clowning crew.

Bored by standard, over-serious education-oriented shows? Try "Cluess Genius", where general knowledge is indeed a laughing matter...
